Frederick T. Martin, the New Yorker whose articles attacking the "idle rich" have attracted attention, died suddenly of apoplexy in London Sunday.

An unknown man, evidently a lunatic, seized Verna Droll, aged 17, at Altus, Ark., and forcibly cut off her beautiful hair with a huge pair of shears and made his escape.

The bond issue election in Warren county for $300,000 of turnpike bonds, has been postponed from March 25 to May 19, as a special registration is necessary in Bowling Green.

A California judge sentenced a negro to 30 years in prison for forcibly kissing a young lady. If it had been in Mississippi, thirty minutes would have been equivalent to a life sentence.

Morris Greenspune, of Chicago, has obtained a court order to change his name to plain Green on March 17. He testified that the "Spune" was unnecessary, as his friends all called him Green and his children had shortened their names.

Huerta's soldiers captured a poet who landed in Yucatan, Mexico, the other day and had him shot. Editor Loving Gaines, of the Trenton Progress, may thank his lucky stars that his travels to and fro do not take him any nearer Yucatan than he may "chew" to go.

Going without stockings is the latest fad in ultra-fashionable Paris. Startling as the fact may seem, the transition toward it has been gradual. The stockings of the last two years have been growing flimsier and flimsier, steadily, with more of the contained than the container apparent. The step to absolute nudity was a short one. It is true that some times the shortest steps carry one into the most enormous differences. At any rate, this step has been taken. That the shops have accepted the fashion as well enough established to be catered to is evidenced by the wealth of sandals, slippers and shoes patently designed for bare feet only and a glist of toe and ankle ornaments now to be seen. For, while stockings mustn't be worn, there is none so advanced as to say that shoes are also to go. The sandals range from the simplest Greek form to the elaborate jeweled ones of the Byzantine period.

WILSON IN
CANAL FIGHT

Underwood Opposes and President Has Hardest Fight of Career.

PARTY UNITY MAY SUFFER

Reciprocal Good Will of England Counted Upon Strongly by President.

Washington, D. C., March 11.—A titanic struggle in the national Congress, which will test the president's personal strength as it has not been tried since his elevation to the chief magistracy, has been begun.

For days and weeks to come the public prints will contain much Washington-date news matter based upon President Wilson's earnest appeal to Congress for the immediate repeal of the free toll provision of the Panama Canal act. The President made this appeal to a Democratic controlled Congress in full knowledge of two incontrovertible facts.

First, that the Democratic platform adopted in Baltimore, July 1912, contained this declaration:

"We favor the exemption from tolls of American ships engaged in coastwise trade passing through the Panama Canal."

Second, an act passed by Congress and approved Aug. 12, 1912, providing for the regulation and maintenance of the Panama Canal, contains a section which says:

"The president is hereby authorized to prescribe and from time to time change the tolls that shall be levied by the government of the United States for the use of the Panama Canal; provided that no tolls shall be levied upon vessels engaged in the coastwise trade of the United States."

In his message a few days ago President Wilson informed Congress that if it did not grant his request for repeal of the canal toll exemption he would "not know how to deal with other matters of even greater delicacy and nearer consequences."

Those of his auditors who were permitted to look into his face as he read the 15 words above quoted never before saw his countenance so overcast with anguish and solemn seriousness. The president was acutely conscious of the fact that in urging Congress to repeal the exemption provision of the Panama Canal act he was recommending to the Democrats of Congress not only the repeal of a law that had been enacted by a Democratic majority, but the repudiation of a plain platform declaration.

What caused the powerful head and front of this great Democratic administration to signal the party leaders in the House and the Senate to reverse the party on this vast and vital policy? This is what the whole country would like to know.

A close reading of the president's "briefest" message to Congress will quickly create the impression that in thus advising and admonishing his party to reverse itself he was actuated first by an irresistible sense of the high moral obligation imposed upon the United States by the Hay-Pauncefote convention in 1901.

Railroads Indicted.

Indictments were returned Monday against the Louisville & Nashville, Illinois Central and Tennessee Central Railroads for failing to furnish as good accommodations for colored passengers as are furnished for white passengers. There are six against the L. & N. and one each against the others and it is charged that there is only one closet in the colored coach and no smoking compartment and that the accommodations are inadequate.

GEN. VILLA
CALLED DOWN

Carranza Orders That Mistreatment of Terrazas, Jr., Be Discontinued.

El Paso, Tex., March 11.—Declaring that Gen. Villa's action in demanding payment of $250,000 from Gen. Terrazas under threats of sending his son Louis Terrazas II., to the front rank in the attack on Torreón, was creating a bad impression in the United States, Gen. Carranza today wired orders to Villa to withdraw the demand and refrain from mistreating the younger Terrazas in any way. Although Villa has not yet replied, it is taken for granted that he will obey the order.

In his message Carranza stated that while the amount asked was badly needed by the constitutionalists, no amount of money could make up for the alienation of the friendship of civilized nations.

TROTTER'S
CLOSE CALL

Hung By Upper Window Sill Until Rescued By The Firemen.

Wm. KIMMONS WAS AT HOME.

Hopkinsville Business Man Missed Athletic Club Horror By Visit Home.

St. Louis, Mo., Mar. 11.—The burning of the Missouri Athletic Club was the worst fire in fatalities ever in St. Louis.

Ten bodies have been recovered from the ruins of the seven-story building, which was destroyed by fire early Monday morning. Of these, three were recovered after the firemen entered the ruins. The other seven were recovered Monday.

Twenty bodies are thought to be in the ruins, making the total death toll thirty. Of the ten bodies recovered, eight have been identified.

The big building was without fire escapes. It was occupied by traveling men generally and the victims are all men.

Wm. Kimmons, of this city, who travels for the Ferguson McKinney Dry Goods Co., is a member of the Club, but comes home every Friday night to spend the week-end with his family. He left for St. Louis at 10:20 Sunday night and was on the road when the fire occurred. He missed it by being at home.

Reuben Trotter, a Crofton merchant, was in the building and had a very narrow escape. He was hanging to the window sill of an upper story when rescued by the firemen.

So far as known no Kentuckians were lost, though two Louisville men were injured.

Marriage licenses were issued to the following couples:

Thos. M. Davis and Edna Cravens; J. A. Gothard and Eunice P'Pool.

ORPHANS
HOME CLOSED

Rev. W. D. Humphrey Announces Inability to Run It Longer.

Rev. W. D. Humphreys has closed the West Kentucky Orphans Home on Seventh street, disposing otherwise of the only two children left in the Home. At one time the Home had about 20 children and got beyond its revenues. For two years the city council paid the house rent of $25 a month and the churches all helped to sustain the home.

A year ago an attempt was made to give it a permanent organization, but Mr. Humphreys could not get along with the directors and they withdrew in a body and much of its former support was withdrawn.

Since that time it had been going down and this added to the ill health of Mr. Humphrey made it inadvisable to continue.

A sale of the household goods has been announced and the home will be closed.

CONTRACT

Discussed at Special Meeting Of The Council Monday Night.

A NEW LIGHTING SYSTEM.

Part Of a Plan To Entirely Rebuild The Present Light Plant.

Superintendent Choate, of the Kentucky Public Service Co., at the meeting of the Council Monday night called for the purpose, submitted a new lighting proposition, based on the proposed installation of a new nitrogen lamp, an improvement over any other lamp in use. Mr. Choate said the new lamps were of three sizes. The 600 candle power or 750 watt lamps would be $65, the same price now paid for the large street lamps. A smaller size of 350 candle power could be furnished for $50 and the 80 candle power size for $20, which would be about like the present small lights. The old contract was for 100 at $65 and 36 at $20, or $7,220 for 136 lights of the two sizes. It is proposed to furnish 20 large ones, 90 of the 350 candle power size, and 56 of the small size for $6,920. This would give 30 more small lights at a saving of $300. Mr. Choate assured the Council that the new lights would be a big improvement and that the city would be better lighted in every way.

Councilmen Russell, Wooldridge and Southall were appointed a committee to confer further with Mr. Choate and report March 20.

The proposed installation of new lights is but a part of the program to practically rebuild the present light plant.

The company expects to begin work on a new building further up the hill from the present one, by April 1 and spend about $80,000 on a brand new plant to replace the old one. It will be much larger and modern in all respects, with capacity for operating a street car line and interurban car lines if power should be needed for such purposes.

TWO-POUND
ORANGES

Were Sent Here From E. A. Stowe's Grove At Redlands, California.

Mr. G. H. Stowe this week received from his brother, Mr. E. A. Stowe, of Redlands, Calif., a sample box of the California seedless oranges raised in his own grove. A specimen brought to the Kentuckian office weighed two pounds and was 16½ inches in circumference and was the largest orange ever seen in Hopkinsville. Mr. Stowe is making a great success in orange culture and has a fine grove of 32 acres in full bearing. His grove annually yields from 10,000 to 15,000 boxes of the very finest quality, which net him from $1.00 to $1.25 per box. Mr. Stowe left this county in 1902 and has become one of the leading orange growers of San Bernardino county, which is the principal orange growing county of the state.

His friends here will also be interested to know that he is about to become a bridegroom. On next Wednesday, March 18, Mr. Stowe will be married to Miss Amanda R. Whaley, of Redlands. He has been a widower for several years.

Mrs. J. W. Lander and daughter, Miss Frances, left this morning for Cerulean to visit Mrs. Lander's mother.

ADDRESS BY
JAS. A. M'KENZIE

Feature of The Good Roads Meeting Tuesday Afternoon.

OTHER INTERESTING TALKS

Chas. E. Barker also A Speaker On the Program for The Meeting.

About forty prominent farmers from over the county attended the good roads meeting at the H. B. M. A. Tuesday afternoon. President S. L. Cowherd, of the Good Roads Association, presided. Some routine business was transacted, after which interesting addresses were delivered by Messrs. Jas. A. McKenzie, Chas. E. Barker and Geoffrey Morgan, on different plans of road building.

The principal address was by Mr. McKenzie, which is here given in full. It was listened to with close attention and was most enthusiastically received.

Mr. McKenzie's address: The Secretary of the Hopkinsville Business Men's Association notified me a few days ago that the Good Roads Association wished to hear from me on the subject of "The Road Grader; its Uses and Abuses."

Permit me to say that the Hopkinsville Business Men's Association deserves great credit and praise for the active interest it is showing in the road movement and in the organization and encouragement of the Good Roads Association.

Good roads have their beginning with the streets of the town and from thence pushed out into the country. It is necessary for some one to take the initiative and logically this initiative takes its source from the town. The farmer's duty and occupation are so diversified and the returns from his labors often so few and far between that it becomes difficult for him to concentrate upon any one thing. For this reason it is so important, nay indispensable, that public spirited business men of our towns and cities should encourage and lend him a helping hand. And it is equally important that the people of the country should respond in the same spirit.

I spent a year in the far north-western state of Washington and was more impressed with the feeling of co-operation and friendship existing between the towns and rural districts than with anything else out there. When the government let the contract for the building of the battleship Nebraska to competitive bidders, Seattle's shipbuilder, Robert Moran, secured the contract, because the citizens of the towns and the country people got together and made up the money to secure Moran against loss in taking over the contract under the bids of eastern shipbuilders. This they did to boost their state and chief city. This is the spirit that predominates in the "Wild and Woolly West," where a few years ago it was generally supposed that everybody carried a Colt's as long as your arm and was ready to shoot you at the drop of a hat.

Nothing could be of any more importance from an economic standpoint than cordial relations between county and town. The interests are mutual and co-ordinate. It is impossible for the town to prosper unless the surrounding territory does, and on the other hand the county wants a prosperous, progressive market place, with good roads leading to it from every quarter of the county, affording a suitable and accessible mart for its produce.

About a mile from where I live, there is a swampy place that was called when I was a boy "Leavell's Bottom." In the center of this swamp stood a number of dead trees

DETENTION ROOM FOR PESTS

Method Adopted by Government for Excluding Entry of Bugs Injurious to Farm Crops.Experience has taught the officials of our national government the advantage of guarding against the possible importation of injurious or undesirable plants and animals. Well meaning but carelessly inclined friends living abroad send home specimens of beautiful or peculiar plants or flowers, strange and unusual insects, small animals as pets, and so forth, not knowing that they are aiding in the spread of what may be extremely harmful pest. Often, too, "seed" of some variety of fruit or vegetable is sent to home friends for planting which contains the eggs of some insect pest or the germs of a disease which may sweep away thousands of dollars' worth of valuable homegrown plants or trees.To prevent any of these disasters
the government has provided a "quarantine room," to which all specimens, living or dead and preserved, must first go for thorough microscopic inspection before being passed on to the recipient. The first shipment received after the establishment of this room was a lot of potatoes from the Andes of South America. They were found to be thoroughly infected with a small brown bug harmful enough to have created an endless amount of mischief among the potato interests of this country had they been allowed to enter unobserved.The inspection room is carefully prepared to prevent the escape of microscopic germs. It is simply a glass inclosed cage about eight by twelve feet, placed in one of the regular office rooms in the department of agriculture, and is absolutely bug proof.

VALUE OF BAGGING GRAPES

Serves to Exclude Both Fungus Germs
and Insects, Both of Which Pests Destroy Whole Crops.When grapes are bagged at an early stage there is hardly any work in the fruit line that pays better. It practically assumes a perfect hunch. The time to bag them is just as soon as the flowering assures a perfect hunch.
The time to bag them is just as the flowering is over. Many insects and hights are not long in finding out a hunch of grapes, and though a week or two after flowering would be

Niagara Grapes Grown in Bags.

soon enough, in all probability, it is better to do the work as soon as the flowers fade. Almost everyone is familiar with the length of a hunch of grapes, and in bagging all one has to do is to place the hunch inside of a bag of sufficient length, give the mouth of the bag a folding or twisting together, and then pinning the mouth, and the work is done and the hunch is safe. With the closing and fastening of the mouth of the bag it both excludes fungus germs and all insects, both of which pests destroy whole crops often where not molested.

Peas for Fattening Lamb.

Peas made by cutting Canada field peas after the bloom and before the pods were formed, was fed to fattening lambs at the South Dakota station. It was a very palatable roughage and highly relished by the lambs.
With the exception of the two lots that received alfalfa, and the lot that received sweet clover, more uniform gains were made than with either of the other lots. It is an advantage to secure uniform gains as the lambs are in a better condition for the market. This trial also emphasizes the importance of feeding a legume as a roughage.

Cheapening the Rations.

The Iowa station has found that a small amount of oil meal or cottonseed meal added to corn and oats improves and cheapens the ration for work horses. A mixture of 77 pounds of shelled corn, 15 pounds of oats and eight pounds of oil meal gave somewhat better results than oil meal, and the ration was a little cheaper in the proportion of 79 pounds of corn, 15 pounds oats and 6 pounds oil meal.

Loss in Eggs.

Two-thirds of the total loss in fertile and infertile eggs takes place on the farm. The basic factors responsible for this condition are the

WANT TO BE NEAR GROUND

Tenants of Modern Skyscrapers Object to Taking Up Quarters in the Upper Stories."With the completion of the Woolworth building, the maximum in the height of buildings has been obtained." This was the expression of the principal of one of the largest renting agencies in this city, when asked concerning desirability or financial advantage of skyscrapers as office buildings, says the Wall Street Journal. The tenant has called a halt. "Had the demand continued," he said, "there is no knowing where the engineer, the architect or the builder would have stopped. Very tall structures which may be erected hereafter will be put up for advertising purposes and not for profit from rentals. There has been a remarkable change of sentiment on the part of tenants within the past few years. Time was when there was a rush to get into the newest and loftiest of structures, but not now.
It is stated on high authority that there is scarcely a building of more than 22 stories in New York that pays a dividend or decent interest on the capital invested. One of more than 30 stories that paid 13 per cent.
for the first few years after completion does not pay expenses today.
That tenants do not want to go too high from the ground is expressed in the most forceful way possible by refusing to rent space above a certain level or by vacating premises above that level for others lower in the same or other buildings. Various reasons are assigned for the refusal to go high and for changes to lower levels. Some complaint of the long elevator journey, others the comparative isolation, and still others are honest enough to admit a shade of dread or doubt. In the Woolworth building, with 53 floors of office-renting space, there is none tenanted above the forty-first story, above which are twelve floors for rent."The ideal skyscraper seems to be one of about 15 to 20 stories.

HAVE A MOTIVE IN WORK

Successful Writer Gives Some Good Advice to Those Who Would Appeal to the Public.

Jack London, who says we should all do our work with a motive, and that whether that work be laying bricks or swabbing a deck or writing short stories, we will succeed only by following that principle, was recently in Los Angeles—with a motive. His motive was to arrange for the reproduction of some of his stories on the moving-picture screen.

London pleaded guilty to having escaped from the hospital six days after entering, but laughingly intimated that his press agent's story that he had been operated on for appendicitis without anesthetic during his stay in bed was slightly exaggerated.

"My 'escape' was connived at by the doctor, who took me home," he said frankly.

London looks 30 and talks at the rate of 900 words a minute. But his talk is worth listening to—full of color, out-of-doors, snap and vigor, made up of short sentences, punctuated with occasional forceful gestures and consistently socialistic in tone.

"I started writing when I was too poor to buy magazines to find out what a story was," he said. "In those days I went to the library and examined myself full of the stories that were selling. Then I sailed in."

"Successful writing depends on clear thinking. Know what you want to say. The words with which you think out your story are the words you should use. If you are thinking clearly—you see?"

"There are tricks and devices that I use—tools in the art. I build on a motive—a thesis, and my story has a dual nature. On the surface is the simple story any child can read—full of action, movement, color. Under that is the real story, philosophical, complex, full of meaning. One reader gets the interesting story, the other sees my philosophy of life."

"If you are filled with enthusiasm for one thing, if you have a message to preach: if you see with a wide vision and hold fast to that one thing, you'll succeed."

EASY TO SATISFY MALONEY

Asked to Name His Reward, He at First Flew High and Then Descended.

It was the recruit squad, and the "rookies" were hot, tired and bad-tempered, as they went awkwardly through the endless drills.

"Ye miserable, blithering spalpeens," yelled Sergeant Murphy. "Put some life in it, ye blundering muddlers!"

"Jia' ye got no bones in yer back at all?" he shouted to one particularly tired-looking recruit. "The only man among ye worth his pipelay is Private Maloney! Stand out, Maloney, me bhoys. Ye deserve a reward for the way ye show up this lot. Now, is there anything ye'd specially like that I can give ye?"

Straight as a clearing-rod stood Private Maloney, and, casting one eye at his sergeant, he said:

"If it makes no difference, sergeant, I'd like the Victoria Cross."

"Now, don't ye be a fool, too, Maloney, me man. The cross is only given for conspicuous bravery."

"Well, then, sergeant, have yer got an old tunic or an old pair of trousers that ye're done with?" asked the redoubtable one.

How Weather Influences Business.

That is an old-time joke that a Philadelphia man turned up his trousers because it rained in London. But the weather exerts a wider influence than that.

A Philadelphia manufacturer who employs more than a thousand hands has told me that a bad day reduces the efficiency of his plant 5 per cent.

The Bank of England looks up certain of its important books on especially foggy days, not because of darkness, but for fear the dulled book-keepers may make an error.

It has been noticed frequently that a bright day following several stormy ones will stimulate the buying of stock. Men are naturally more optimistic and buoyant when the sun shines.

New Idea.

The other evening a man, in what some aesthetes would call "faultless evening dress," was observed to be a new advertisement in disguise; that is to say, when the man opened his coat and pressed something, certain illuminated letters appeared on his shirt front. Also, on the same evening there was a man walking about the West end of London wearing the ordinary evening clothes and—white socks. His pumps were black. He was not an advertisement for anybody but himself. Here is an idea for some of you young bloods who want to distinguish yourself in the ballroom. Just wear white socks and note the glances.

Time to Quit.

"You are drinking too much at this ball."

"That is because my girl is flirting with other fellows. But I'll make her jealous. Did you see me talking to yonder tall dame?"

"I saw you talking to a piano lamp."

Real Truth.

"You told me you married me for love and then you told one of your horrid bachelor friends you married me merely for my money."

"Well, both are right. I married you for love of your money."

CAP and BELLS

SENSITIVE MAN OF PEOTONE

Couldn't Stand to Be Guyed by Citizens of Town and Therefore Asked Pass of Manager.

Aaron J. Jones, president of the Jones, Link & Schaefer firm, was talking of days, not so long gone, when the free pass was an institution as well as an abuse.

"It is all real money that comes in now," he said, "but I remember when things were different. I was manager of a travelling vaudeville company about 20 years ago. Martin Beck was my advance agent. I used to give Beck a five spot every time I caught up with him, which was about twice a week. That was as far as we booked ahead."

"We were playing three nights in Peotone—ever hear of Peotone? No? Well, it is near, Moae, Ill."

"Beck and I were standing at the door on the second night of our engagement when a man stepped up to me and asked for a pass. 'Why do you ask me for a pass?' I inquired."

"'Because I'm so sensitive,' he answered."

"Sensitive? What's that got to do with the matter?" I asked.

"Well, I'll tell you, Mr. Jones," he said. "I was in to see your show last night and I was the only man of the whole darn lot that paid for his ticket. They all guyed me about it like the dickens, and I'm so sensitive I don't want to go through such an experience again."—New York Her-ald.

An Awful Plight.

Mrs. Newed—I am in an awful fix, mamma.

Mrs. Englebeak—What is the matter?

Mrs. Newed—I went through George's pockets last night to hunt for change, as you advised me to, and I found some letters which I gave him to post last week and now I dare not scold about the letters for fear he'll scold about my going through his pockets.—Puck.

Damaged Enough.

After a recent railway collision in the midlands a Scotsman was extricated from the wreckage by a companion who had escaped unhurt.

"Never mind, Sandy," his rescuer remarked; "it's nothing serious, and you'll get damages for it."

"Damages!" roared Sandy. "Have I no had enough o' them? It's repairs I'm seeking the poor!"—London Tit-Bits.

A GOOD IMAGINATION.

"Wotcher so happy about, Fatty?" "I wust just thinkin' if I'd find a dollar what a lot of candy and cakes and t'ings I could git!"

Recurrent Auditor.

"You went to sleep during your wife's speech."

"Yes," replied Mr. Meekton. "Henrietta has been rehearsing that speech for a week. I told her I had better not come here. I knew something like this would happen if she couldn't shout 'Are you listening Leonidas?' every now and then."

Range of the Market.

"Did your daughters marry well?"

"Not exactly. One married a farmer, and another married an ultimate consumer, but the third may make up for all that."

"How so?" "She's engaged to a middleman."—Judge.

Caution.

"You don't eat corn on the cob," said Mrs. Flimgilt.

"No," replied Miss Cayenne. "Corn on the cob is very likely to loosen and absorb cosmetics, thereby endangering both the complexion and the digestion."

Kansas Woman Helpless.

Lawrence, Kan.—Mr. J. F. Stone, of this city, says, "My wife suffered for ten years from womanly troubles during two years of which she was totally helpless. She was examined by many physicians, some of whom gave her up to die. Finally she began to take Cardui, and since then has greatly improved in health. The tonic, strengthens, and restorative effects of Cardui, the woman's tonic on the womanly constitution, are the most valuable qualities of this popular medicine. Cardui acts specifically on the womanly constitution. Half a century of success proves that Cardui will do all that is claimed for it. Try it for your trouble. Advertisement."

ADDRESS BY JAS. A.

MCKENZIE ON GOOD ROADS

that afforded an ideal roosting place for crows. At least they thought so, for upon frequent occasions practically all the crows in Christian from the north as well as the south, and I am sure a goodly representation from Todd and Trigg, would meet in convention there and caw and dispute, wrangle and pow-wow for hours at a time. About what, the Lord only knows, but that they were earnestly discussing something of great importance to them was clear to all. After so long a time, they would solemnly fly away in all directions and resume their customary vociferations. If crows in great numbers find it necessary to come together frequently for the discussion of their mutual affairs, surely the people of Hopkinsville and the county at large can do as well as the crows. If no other results are brought about by the town and county will come to know each other better and this will do great things towards overcoming prejudice and misunderstanding.

Pow-wows and discussions are always necessary preliminaries to every undertaking, whether it be for the betterment of the affairs of birds, beasts or men. I admit that it would be better to go right ahead with some road work in Christian county and cut out all the talk about it, but such is not the regular procedure. However urgent and pressing the business in hand may be, the preliminary pow-wow must be pulled off.

Such meetings as this do more to break down any feeling of hostility that may exist between town and country people than anything else. I regret, that owing largely to prejudice, there does not always exist that mutual confidence and esteem that would be so much better for all. Country people heretofore have felt to a more or less extent that about all the use the town people had for them was to collect taxes from them, call them "hayseeds," make jokes about the length and quality of their whiskers, and throw the hooks into them just as good and deep as the state of their health and capacity of their pocketbooks would permit. But praise be to heaven this misunderstanding and prejudice is passing away. I therefore congratulate the H. B. M. A. for its efforts to cultivate more cordial and intimate relations between the business men and people of Hopkinsville and the citizens of Christian county. I am sure these efforts will succeed and bring about most gratifying results. These meetings will do more towards having good roads than all the campaign oratory on earth. The voter now is more interested in the men who has put forth an intelligent effort and actually built some good roads, than in the empty promises and vague claptrap of the lurid and turgid office-seeker, who informs him with such pride and warmth, "that he practically came into the world lisping the sacred word 'DEMOCRACY,'" or that he has been faithfully and untiringly preaching since his infancy the imperishable principles of the GRAND OLD REPUBLICAN PARTY.

There can be no doubt that the road grader is a highly useful implement. Under ordinary conditions a road can be ditched and crowned with a grader in a cheap and satisfactory manner. Some very good work has been done with them in Christian county. But the trouble has been that there are so many roads and so few graders that it has been impossible to keep the roads in condition with them. While these graders, I am told, are not unreasonably expensive, when you consider that the split log drag will do almost as good work on dirt roads as the grader, then they are expensive and their use will finally be discontinued. The average road in my section of the county has been graded about once in two years—a help of course, but by no means sufficient to keep a dirt road in good condition. By the regular use of the drag these dirt roads can be kept in splendid condition the whole year round at no cost to the county and at but small outlay to the farmer. But here is the objection to the use of the drag that you hear the farmer make, "Why should I pay taxes to have roads and then make them at my own expense?" "As long as I keep up the roads with the drag, will the county build me a pike?" There you are! The farmer wants a pike, and not a dirt road, and he is right. The stick and daub chimney and dirt road were all right when Daniel Boone made his first trip to Kentucky, but now it is different and the natives want better things, and they are going to have them.

The split log drag as well as the grader lays a fine foundation for a pike, but when you have said that, you are about at your row's end. Personally the dirt road does not appeal to me. Any people who make themselves contented with dirt roads are in a fair way to lapse into a state of indigence, ignorance and despair. This is the age for road making along substantial lines, not here alone but everywhere.

Is Christian county to be contented with well graded and dragged roads, punk little stretches of patchwork pike, while other sections of the county are building excellent macadam roads and talking about making concrete ones? I think not. We will at least build a certain number of miles of real pike every year, in addition to the free work put on the highways by the farmers with their drags.

The main use of a grader, it appears to me, is in connection with actual pike construction. Its principal abuse is permitting it to rust out beside the highway, or using it to grade dirt roads that should be graded with the split log drag.

Actual pike construction, and how are we to go about building pikes in this big county with $30,000 a year as a road fund; $30,000 a year is a small sum of money, to be sure, for expensive work like pike building in a county the size of Christian. But I venture to say that this sum of money spent on the roads in a business-like way will do substantial things. There are ways and means of adding to this amount without increased taxation.

A bill before the present Legislature has for its purpose an appropriation for road building. The Federal Government has already made an appropriation of half a million dollars and there is a bill pending now for an immense appropriation. This federal aid can be obtained for Christian county if real interest is manifested, backed up by some work in road building worthy of the name of macadam. The business men of Hopkinsville will help. The farmer near whom the road is built will lend his aid in hauling stone and contributions in money too, but he is from Missouri, and you have got to show him the money is going to be not only honestly but efficiently spent, to the end that a road will result and not a quagmire.

The whole country realizes that the old system for the administration of public affairs is inefficient and expensive, especially inefficient. For that reason the commission form of government is spreading like wild fire. Cities with the commission form of government are securing the services of the best business men they can get, irrespective of their party affiliations, to administer their affairs and they are getting results.

Politics in road making is as fatal as it is in sewer contracts, street railway, electric light or gas franchises have been in the city of New York.

Why not take road work out of politics? If a man is making good as a road builder let's not inquire into his religion or politics, but check him up on the measurements of the rock he is placing on the roads. Why not build what pikes we do in a substantial manner, and not waste money putting rock patches on dirt roads? Why not use the $30,000 a year along the dirt road where the farmers will bid the most for it in the way of hauling and money? The farmers will subscribe so much money, pay half of it when the work begins, make notes for the balance to be paid when the road is finished and accepted by a committee of farmers selected by the subscribers for this purpose. Have this committee inspect the road during the course of its construction, and in case the work is not being done to suit them, let them kick and protest then, when the kick will do good, and not wait until the whole thing is a hopeless mess.

This will make your $30,000 go a long way in road building. It has been suggested by some that our county vote on a bond issue of several thousand dollars for road purposes; but is it not more business-like for our road officers to first show their ability and willingness to economically and judiciously spend the present $30,000 tax fund before we burden the tax payers with the bond proposition?

State aid for road work is on the way; Federal aid can be had if we are enterprising and will go after it and show that we are willing and able to make some roads worth while. The government helps those that show a disposition to do something themselves.

Good roads leading into Hopkinsville will bring business and money that is now going elsewhere and will add to the wealth of our county and town. The town having the best roads leading to it, other conditions being equal, will get the business. This fact has been made celebrated in the child's classic.

"Doctor Foster went to Gloucester in a shower of rain,

He fell in a puddle up to his middle and never went there again."

JAS. A. MCKENZIE.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only Constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a tablespoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

TOWERING STACKS

Ellis Ice Co. Will Have Two of Them 120 Feet High.

The Ellis Ice Co. has taken down its immense iron smoke stack 100 feet long and is splicing it 20 feet and will erect another the same height, making two stacks 120 feet high. This is preparatory to the extensive improvements planned for this spring. A pole nearly 80 feet long is being used in erecting the big stacks.

Excellent Precepts.

ITALIAN EDUCATOR.

MARIA MONTESSORI.

The Parent-Teachers Association of the Virginia Street School held a meeting Tuesday afternoon and an interesting program was carried out. The leading topic of discussion was "The Montessori Method of Teaching," which was discussed by Miss Virginia Nourse, Miss Jean McKee and Mrs. W. T. Fowler, their talks being most interesting. Madame Montessori is an Italian educator who has originated a new system by which children of four years learn to write in six weeks without effort or strain. She has been called "A Wonder-Worker in Education."

ACCOUNTANT TAKE LEAVE

Allen Fishers Has Presumably Completed Inspection of Books.

Allen Fisher of Nashville, the expert accountant who had been for about two months going over the tax books of the last eight years, by direction of the council left Tuesday. No information has been made public and Mr. Fisher will probably submit a formal report to the mayor and council. It is understood that the examination went back to the last year of Collector Gus Tandy, deceased, 1906 and covered two years of H. C. Moore, two of H. T. Hurt, two of J. D. Higgins and one year of J. W. Richards, the books for 1913 not having been closed up. Mr. Fisher was assisted in the clerical work by C. O. Prowse, who was one of the auditors of the books of the late collector Gus Tandy when a settlement was made by Mr. Tandy's executor with the city.

NO MERCY FOR WIFE KILLER.

Feeling against William Josiah McMeen, convicted in 1886 of the murder of his wife in Port Royal, Juniata county, was declared to be as strong as it was in 1887, when the board of pardons was hanged in effigy for commuting his sentence of death to life imprisonment.

Senator E. E. Beidleman made application for pardon for McMeen, declaring he had been a model prisoner since sent to the Western penitentiary in 1887 and there were grave elements of doubt in the conviction of McMeen.

Senator Beidleman's arguments were attacked by District Attorney Graybill of Juniata county, who declared that the people of the county feared the return of McMeen, whom he declared was still regarded as "a bad man" by men and women who remembered the tragedy in which he figured twenty-eight years ago. The board refused pardon.

GET RID OF NUISANCES.

The New York Edison company has perfected an apparatus for eliminating the smoke and cinder nuisance at its great Waterside station, New York. The smoke from the boiler plant, laden with soot and cinders, is driven at high speed through a sheet of water, by means of which practically all of the material which constitutes a nuisance is deposited in a big water tank. The recent test showed an average efficiency of extraction of 95 per cent.

BURNED CANDLE FOR HER.

Poet Charles Hanson Towne's newest story is about a clever woman playwright he knows. Another woman wrote her: "Burn a candle for me, that my new play succeeds." The clever woman playwright wired back, "Burning candle at both ends for you."—New York World.

HARD LANGUAGE TO LEARN

Peculiarities of English Tongue Seem to Have Somewhat Mystified This Student.

It is hard for the person to whom English is his native tongue to realize what a struggle the foreigner has to understand some of the peculiarities of our spelling and the following is a description of his first lesson in an English class:

We have been given a book to learn the letters. I arrive at the class, having learned them perfectly.

Soon, in the course of the lesson, we have the word l-o-w. "Love," I pronounce it, thinking the w has the sound of v.

"No; it is pronounced 'lo,' said the teacher.

"Then why is the w there?" I inquire, mystified.

"It is there because that is the way the word is spelled," responds the teacher; "but it is silent. Never mind why; it is sufficient to know that it is there."

Before long we come to the word n-o-w.

"Pronounce it," says the teacher.

"No," I reply.

"Why will you not?" she asked me.

It is some time before she understands that I am trying to pronounce the word when I say "No." Then she declares that although l-o-w is l-o, n-o-w is now.

"If you want to make it no," she explains, kindly, "you put k before it."

You may believe I am bewildered. However, I memorize that n-o-w is now. The next word is s-n-o-w. I pronounce it like now with an s before it. The teacher laughs. The w is again become silent, apparently for no reason, and the word is called s-n-o.

But that is not all. Later I find that if you drop the n from snow you can pronounce it whichever way you like!

Hopkinsville Drug Stores Are Giving Away a Limited Supply of the New External Vapor Treatment

Applied Over Throat and Chest, It Relieves Colds Over Night—Croup in Fifteen Minutes

Local druggists report a remarkable demand for the new vapor treatment for croup and cold troubles. Vick's Croup and Pneumonia Salve, recently introduced here from North Carolina. This treatment is in the form of a salve that is applied externally over the chest and throat. The heat of the body releases the soothing anesthetic vapors of Eucalyptol, Thymol, Menthol, Camphor, Pinus Sylvestris, etc., which are inhaled with every breath through the air passages direct to the lungs. At the same time Vick's is absorbed through the skin, taking out the soreness.

In croup cases the breathing is made easier in five minutes, and in fifteen minutes the worst cases are relieved. In cases of severe colds, hot wet towels are first applied to the chest and throat to open the pores of the skin. Follow this with a good application of Vick's and cover with a warm flannel cloth. The vapors inhaled all night long loosen the phlegm and open the air passages. The next morning the head is clear and the soreness gone from the lungs.

A number of the more enterprising druggists have made arrangements with the manufacturers by which they are allowed to give away a limited number of 25-cent packages free to their customers.

If your druggist has given away all his free packages, you can purchase a 25c, 50c or $1.00 jar on 30 days' trial. With each purchase you are given a refund blank, good for your money back if you do not find Vick's the best thing you have ever tried.

Among the druggists who are giving away free packages are:

Unusual Request.

County Clerk L. J. Harris a few days ago received a letter from John Wilford Pike, of Monette, Ark., asking that Mr. Harris send him a copy of his marriage certificate and to get the testimony of three prominent citizens, whom the writer names, "as to whether my wife is a white woman or a negro."

The records show that Pike was married in this county on September 3, 1899, to Miss Addie Choute, of the northern section of the county.

People who knew her say she was dark-skinned, but unquestionably a Caucasian. Nothing is known here of Pike's motives in making such inquiries at this late day.

Let Out on Bail.

John Cayce, the negro boy who was so ill of typhoid fever in jail, was admitted to bail in the sum of $1,000 this week and taken to his father's home on Howe street. The boy is held on a charge of murder, but his condition is such that it was best for him to be released from jail. His bond was signed by Charley Cayce, his father, and Jas. L. Allensworth.

Women in Congress.
The late James Freeman Clarke, answering a man who feared that if women had the ballot they would go to congress, said: "Perhaps so, but not until we want them. And when we want them we shall no longer be shocked at their taking such positions."

Popular Advice.
Chicago's health commissioner advises young men to take a kiss whenever the girl is willing, regardless of alleged germs that linger on ruby lips. Now, there is a man of sense. Many a slipshod young fellow has thus been inoculated with the germs that made a man of him.—Pittsburgh Post.

PIRATES AT DAWSON

Pittsburg Nationals Headed By Fred Clark At Training Camp.

Dawson Springs, Ky., March 9—Headed by Fred Clark, playing manager, John Bailey, business manager C. C. Erszier, coach and Hans Wagner, the Pittsburg Nationals with 32 players and several visitors arrived here today. The players were met at the depot by a brass band and practically every person, man, woman and child in the city turned out to greet the diamond heroes upon their arrival. The Pirates may have received welcomes from larger crowds, but it is positive that they never received more hospitality than they did when they stepped from the train this afternoon. The town was gaily decorated with flags and bunting.

Owing to the wet grounds the players will not get into the field practice until probably Wednesday or Thursday. They will be put through a cross country run every day until the grounds are in condition.

The players are: Matts G. Carey, C. J. Konetchy, Chas. B. Adams, Alex G. McCarthy, Gilbert Butler, Sam Brenningham, H. C. Baird, R. H. Coleman, B. D. Duffy, Frank Kratoch, J. H. Kelly, J. H. Leonard, Lloyd L. Watts, O. A. McArthur, J. Hans Wagner, Martie O'Toole, C. W. Cooper, Geo. Gibson, H. Hyatt, Jas. H. Counsellman, F. W. Delhi, Chas. Allercora, Jas. Kalv, Geo. McQuillim, Jas. Voix, H. H. Murrey, Joe. Watson, B. G. Kunpleheur, Ed. Nensa, J. N. Harman.

The visitors are: Al. Wagner, August Hooper, Jas. McAfee, Jas. Jerter and Will Davis, sporting editor of the Pittsburg Dispatch.

OFFER MADE

To Pay $6,000,000 For The Terrazas Estate In Mexico.

Price McKinney, of Cleveland, has made an offer of $6,000,000 to Luis Terrazas for his vast estate in Chihuahua, Northern Mexico. late in possession of Gen. Francisco Villa, with $250,000 to the latter for the constitutional war chest if he will sanction the sale.

The Terrazas estate is worth many millions. The haciendas and all the homes were seized by Villa and the family fled. Don Luis' Palace of Tears is the name that the Mexicans have given to the million-dollar palace of marble and cut stone which Gen. Terrazas was having built at the time he was forced to leave Chihuahua. It is in this palace, yet unfinished, that the women folks of the Terrazas family lived after the evacuation of Chihuahua and while Luis Terrazas, Jr., was being held a prisoner in the palace across the plaza. It was the weeping of these women, who were forced to wait, that gave to the palace its name.

NO LESS THAN THREE KISSES

Belgian Expert Decrees That Number as Wife's Right After Three Years of Marriage.

The court at Antwerp recently had a divorce case in which the wife of a rich manufacturer-pleaded with tears the neglect of her husband.

"My husband," she said, "embraces me no more with the effusive tenderness he once exhibited. It is evident to me that he is taking his kisses elsewhere."

"My wife," said the husband, responding to the charge, "is wrong to complain, gentlemen. She has such a hunger for affectionate demonstration that she makes it a punishment to me."

The perplexed tribunal took the case into consultation and called in an expert, whose report was decisive.

"The code," said this authority, "does not prescribe the number of kisses a man should bestow upon his wife weekly. In practice, during the honeymoon, this obligation is without limit. But after the first weeks of marriage it diminishes progressively. At the end of three years, as in this case, the kisses could reasonably be reduced to three a day, one in the morning, one at noon and one in the evening."

The court, now being sufficiently enlightened, rendered judgment in favor of the husband.

GOT THE CAPTAIN'S "GOAT"

Obstinate Occupant of Motor Boat Caused Him to Lose Two Very Precious Minutes.

"The small vest-pocket editions of motorboats cause us fellows more trouble than a battleship," said the captain of a North river ferryboat, pointing out of his pilot house window to a little motor boat creeping along close to the Jersey shore.

"See that boat? It's hardly larger than a Jersey mosquito, and yet I'll bet a dollar that boat makes me lose a couple of minutes."

The captain swung the wheel over and blew a deep, long blast from the whistle in an effort to scare the operator of the motor boat and cause him to change his course and pass to the stern of the ferryboat. The man in the motorboat paid no attention and went chug-chugging on his way.

"Just what I said," cried the captain, decorating his language freely.
"I have to make connections with an outgoing train, and if I'm a minute late I have to explain why. If I keep on I'll run down that motorboat."

"In the position we lie now I have the right of way, and according to government rules and regulations I should keep on my course and let that fellow go astern of me. I have blown him a whistle, but you see he pays no attention because he doesn't know what the 'rules of the road'
are. I suppose he thinks I'm whistling for fun. If I keep on I'll run down that motorboat, and I'm sure to lose my job; if I stop till that dinky thing is out of the way I'll lose a couple of minutes."

The captain stopped his boat and swore and the motorboat kept on.

"My conception of hell," said the captain, "is a crowded river like this with a lot of fool motorboats puffing around."

BELONG TO SUICIDE CLUBS

Refugees in Germany Who Pledge Themselves to Self-Destruction Within Short Time.

The Berlin police are busy tracing the founders of suicide club associations, which are a novelty for Germany, although they have existed for many years in Russia, despite police efforts to check their growth and expansion.

A surprisingly large number of these clubs have sprung up in Germany, and are now banded into associations similar to the Russian organizations. Members are recruited principally from Russian students and political refugees.

Weekly meetings are held, each time at different places, in order to avoid police interference. At each meeting some members volunteer to commit suicide. Lots are drawn and the victim designated. He has to kill himself within the next 24 hours.

In order to put him in as cheerful a mood as possible opium or some other drug is served, with wines, speeches are delivered on the uselessness of life and the delightfully hopeful existence of after death.

Naturally, these weird associations have aroused the suspicions of the German authorities, and every night police raid dens where the prospective suicides are likely to be.

What put the police on the track was the fact that in Berlin some women accepted as members backed out when the time came for them to kill themselves, and after their expulsion took revenge by reporting to the police.

DEFINITION IS QUITE CLEVER

Earth is Somewhat Larger Than a Baseball, but Not So Important—Is Splendid Summer Resort.

The earth is a ball, so situated in a region called space as to get the full benefit of the sun on bright days and of the moon on romantic nights. It is somewhat larger than a baseball, but not so important. It is not so large as a fixed star, but is much closer and of a much pleasanter climate. It is not so flashy as a charity ball, but much more efficient.

It has two poles of which we are cer-

NATURAL EFFECT.

"Your friend Banks has a very su-

Everything Depends.

Tommy—May I sit up a little longer?

Ethel—What do you want to stay up for?

Tommy—I want to see you and Mr.

Mr. Green—But we are not going to play cards.

heard mamma saying to Ethel that everything depended on the way she played her cards tonight.—Liverpool

The Merry Life.

Some young folks have odd ideas of the life theatrical.

"My, but I'd like to travel on the road with a company," said a young man the other day.

"What would you like most about such a life?" his companion asked.

"I think it would be great," the ambitious one exclaimed, "to sit about the railroad stations playing a banjo and singing songs until the train arrived."—Youngstown Telegram.

The Time He Scored.

Six years later he returns. His sweetheart of former years has married. They meet at a party. She has changed; between dances the recognition takes place.

"Let me see," she muses, with her fan heating a tattoo on her pretty hand, "was it you or your brother who was my old sweetheart?"

"Really, I don't know; probably my father."

That's Different.

Wydeman—Excuse me, young man,
but I think your mother needs attention.

Nahrow—The lady is my mother-in-law.

Wydeman—Oh! I beg your pardon.

J. R. OSBORNE GETS 5 YEARS

Clarksville Bank Book-Keeper Pleads Guilty and "Takes His Medicine."

HE WENT ALL THE GAITS.

Prominent Young Man Who Yielded To Temptation In Handling Money.

In the Federal Court at Nashville, John R. Osborne, aged 22, book-keeper for the First National bank of Clarksville, was sentenced to serve five years in the United States penitentiary at Atlanta, Ga., after he had entered a plea of guilty to the charge of misappropriating $2,512 of funds and making false entries in the bank's books.

Mr. Osborne is a man of splendid appearance and has always stood well in the community where he lives, where he is said to have been quite popular. The misappropriation of the $2,512 was attributed by him in trying to keep the pace with those who had larger incomes, and to assisting his own family in their financial difficulties. He was socially prominent at Clarksville.

In federal court Tuesday, Osborne declined to fight the case and announced that he was ready to "take his medicine." Judge Sanford imposed the minimum sentence of five years in the penitentiary, and Osborne was committed to the Davidson county jail until he can be transported to the federal prison.

WITHDRAW FROM BUREAU

Twenty-Seven Insurance Companies Notify Secretary
At Louisville.

Louisville, Ky., March 9.—Announcement was made this morning by C. E. Wheeler that twenty-seven fire insurance companies of a total 109 doing business in Kentucky have already withdrawn the authority of the Kentucky Actuarial Bureau to represent them in the state. While this does not mean that these companies have yet withdrawn from the state, it is regarded as a preliminary step following the enactment of the Glenn fire insurance bill, against which fire insurance companies made a bitter fight.

Manager Wheeler, of the Actuarial Bureau, said this morning that when the insurance law was passed two years ago it gave the companies the privilege if they so desired of acting through one agency in the making of rates and the matter of inspections if the application of rules and schedules. This resulted in the creation of the Actuarial Bureau.

The companies that have thus far withdrawn are as follows:

Alliance Insurance Company, of Philadelphia.

American Insurance Company, of New Jersey.

Camden Fire Insurance Association, Camden, N. J.

Citizens Insurance Company, of Missouri.

Commercial Union Assurance Company, Ltd., London.

Commercial Union Fire Insurance Company, New York.

Kemper & Coons this afternoon received definite instructions from the People's National Fire Insurance Company, of Philadelphia, to cease business for the companies, to return policies, certificate of authority as agents and render final accounting on all current accounts. This is taken as indicating that the People's National has decided to withdraw completely from the state as a result of the signing of the Glenn-Green insurance act by the governor.

UNDER THE FEET

Of an Unruly Horse But Escaped Injury.

Mr. S. E. Chastain, an elderly citizen, was knocked down in an accident at the corner of Ninth and Virginia streets at 3:30 Tuesday afternoon. A horse driven by Messrs. Buchanan and Adcock, two South Christian farmers, became frightened at an auto coming down Ninth street and became unruly. The animal plunged and struck Mr. Chastain, who was crossing the street. One shaft struck his breast, but hit a book in his pocket and did not penetrate. Aside from some minor bruises he was not hurt, thought at one time he was under the horse's feet. Mr. Adcock jumped out and

FOUND IN HOSPITAL ILL

Prominent In Literary Circles
Of Kentucky—Of Distinguished Family.

Henderson, Ky., March 11.—Harassed by business cares which preyed upon his mind until it is believed he suffered a nervous breakdown, Ingram Crockett, cashier of the Planter's State bank of this city for the past 10 years, and a poet of country wide note, mysteriously disappeared Tuesday, and went to a hospital at New Albany, Ind.

Bank inspectors at work on the books had found a shortage in his accounts. Montgomery Merritt, President, says it will not exceed his bond of $25,000 and he has $25,000 in property, mostly in real estate. The bank's credit will not be impaired. Mr. Crockett had been sick for several days and mental derangement is one theory for his going away.

He was married in 1887, and was a son of the late John W. Crockett, one of Henderson county's famous pioneer lawyers and orators. He has a wife and three children, two sons and one daughter. His age is about fifty-eight years.
